Contested building nearing completion

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A commercial building on Johnson Road is nearly complete, but the city has yet to rezone the property for commercial use.

The one-story building at 2133 Johnson Road, which is to house a telecommunications business, is in an area that is zoned residential, according to the city's zoning map.

The property, owned by John Rogers, was the subject of a lawsuit in which Rogers challenged a city decision several years ago not to rezone the area for commercial use.

The building, which now sets behind a frame house, will also have office space available to others, Jones said. The house, which Jones also owns, will be torn down to provide parking space, Jones said.

A Madison County jury ruled that Jones could put the property to commercial use. The 5th District Appellate Court in Mt. Vernon upheld the jury's decision.

The judgment "allowed the subject property to be used for any permitted in a commercial district in the ordinance," the appellate court's 1985 ruling stated. The ruling said the property's best use would be for commercial purposes, that nearby property was essentially commercial and the city's law was arbitrary in the case.

But the city has never formally rezoned the area. And the city's revised zoning map, which has not yet been approved by the City Council, still lists the property as residential.

"It was an oversight," said 7th Ward Alderman Jeff Worthen, who chairs the council's zoning committee.

Worthen said the new map would be revised to list Jones's property as commercial.

The city's zoning administrator, John Jakich, said Jones asked that the property be given

Venice school halls to be filled with sound of music again

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — Venice students will soon have their first music teacher in nearly a dozen years.

Lori Edwards, St. Louis, was hired Jan. 14 by the school board to teach general music in the secondary and elementary schools.

The board has sought applicants to fill the role of music teacher for the past year. In 1987, two individuals were approved for the job but both decided not to accept the position at the last moment.

Lack of a music program in the high school curriculum was among the concerns of a visiting evaluation team from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in May 1987.

Noting that smaller school districts frequently are not in a position to do everything they wish to do for their students, Harold R. Baum, Valmeyer superintendent of schools and evaluation committee chairman, recommended the Venice district add choir and band programs as quickly as possible to meet state requirements.

The new music instructor received a bachelor of arts degree in vocal music education in 1983 with a minor in church

No replacement named for Eckert's BAC seat

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — The vacant seat on Belleville Area College's Board of Trustees remains unfilled.

Trustees on Wednesday didn't appoint a replacement for Curt Eckert 78, who resigned Dec. 17 due to health problems.

A special board meeting was called for 7:30 p.m. Feb. 10 at the Belleville campus to select a new trustee.

Trustee Ted Farmer suggested that Ruthie Kombrink, Belleville, be appointed to fill the vacancy. His motion ended in a 3-3 tie vote. Farmer, along with Trustees Elizabeth Jenner and Dan Wolford, voted to appoint Kombrink. Voting against were Trustees Kay Bennett, Robert Dintelmann and Larry Reinneck.

Kombrink, a former BAC employee, worked to defeat the 1985 BAC tax referendum.

Farmer said Kombrink was instrumental in getting him elected to the board and was qualified to fill the seat.

"I am super loyal to Ruthie," Farmer said. "She's just a lady that's got it all together."

Though friends, Reinneck said, he and Kombrink think too much alike.

"Ruthie's a clone of me and vice versa," he said.

Nine of the 10 candidates for the seat were interviewed by the board at a special meeting held prior to the 7:30 p.m. regular meeting. One candidate, Don Davinroy, Mitchell, was among three Madison Countians interviewed.

Davinroy, 46, is a former instructor at Granite City High School North and BAC's Granite City Campus. He teaches at Collinsville High School.

Davinroy said he first became interested in the college when he took data processing classes there. He said he bought BAC bumper stickers and T-shirts for his children.

"I was proud to be a student at Belleville Area College," he said.

Davinroy is concerned over why many former high school students don't attend BAC, he told trustees. Davinroy said Tuesday that a greater effort to market the college to high schoolers is needed.

Davinroy said the role of the board is to set policy and goals. Administrators should carry out those those policies and goals, he said.

Davinroy on Tuesday said Madison County taxpayers have the right to be represented and the board needs to have input from Madison County. He said the person appointed must be interested in education.

Don Davinroy

Except for student Trustee Linda Roy, Granite City, an advisory member whose vote doesn't count, the board is comprised of St. Clair County residents. In his letter of resignation, Eckert said he hoped his replacement would come from outside St. Clair County.

Davinroy said he's not familiar with all the details of a new law that would allow BAC trustees to be elected from sub-districts instead of at large. Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, said last week he is behind an areawide petition drive to change BAC elections to make them provide board representation from more than St. Clair County.

Davinroy said there has been divisiveness between board members but much of it is over since the firing last month of former Chancellor Bruce Wissore. He said interim Chancellor B.J. Davis will be a "steadying influence" at the college.

"I think he'll keep things smoothed out," he said.

Shirley Highlander, Collinsville, and William Ambuehl, Highland, were the other two Madison County candidates interviewed. Highlander was defeated in the November board election.

It's important that a representative from Madison County serve on the board, Highlander said, since one-third of the college district's tax money comes from this county.

MESD tax rate vote likely

By Bill Winter
Staff writer

A tax rate referendum is likely in the Metro East Sanitary District, a group of 50 was told at the January community prayer breakfast, held Wednesday at Charlie's Restaurant.

Hard-pressed to operate with a present yearly income of about $2 million, MESD needs to double that amount, Shang Greathouse, the district's executive director, said.

"We've got trouble right here in River City," said Carl Mathias, moderator of the meeting, in summing up the conclusions.

The expanded MESD budget would include $400,000 a year to operate and maintain a proposed system of pumps designed to lower the underground water table in the below-the-bluffs area of the Metro East region.

Greathouse said the projected $8 million cost of removing groundwater assumes that a waiver will be obtained, enabling the water to be dumped into the Mississippi River without being treated to remove iron and manganese. Treatment costs would be prohibitive, he said.

Sources of the $8 million to install a series of wells and pumps were listed as: the federal government, $6 million; the state government, $800,000; and the equivalent of $1,200,000 in sites, on existing MESD land.

Unless the sanitary district serves as the groundwater removal agency and agrees to meets operational and maintenance costs, the federal grant will be lost, it was said.

State Rep. Sam Wolf, Granite City, said an election would be necessary to authorize a higher tax rate limit for MESD, since the state legislature can, but won't, directly impose a rate change affecting a specific area. He will introduce legislation to permit a tax rate decision by the public.

Wolf said three separate matters face MESD and bottomland residents: the groundwater lowering proposal; a $25 million task of improving and modernizing MESD's network of 14 surface water pump stations and the related cleaning of drainage ditches; and the creation of fairer ways of funding regular ditch and pump station maintenance plus operation of the groundwater pumping project.

Real estate taxes are paid to Greathouse's 106-square-mile district by property owners within MESD boundaries, including the Quad City, East St. Louis and Cahokia-Dupo areas, but the actual runoff area served totals 430 square miles; speakers said.

Superintendent of Streets Mac Warfield said water rises to within nine feet of the surface in parts of Granite City, putting pressure on basement walls in some neighborhoods and causing costly city sewer line collapses.

Ben Bentarella, an engineer with the emergency service of the Army Corps of Engineers St. Louis District, told the group about an Oct. 4, 1986, flood that affected 1,200 homes and displaced 10,000 residents of East St. Louis.

Photo slides showed the flood damage and its cause — an MESD pump station that was unable to keep out the Mississippi River after a floodgate broke unexpectedly. It has since been repaired at a cost of $1,488,000, consisting of $557,000 in federal emergency funds, $631,000 from the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and $300,000 from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

$1 million for repairs

By David Rocks
P-R/I Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — After some debate over how much Congress would earmark for the repair this year of the East St. Louis flood control system, it finally settled on $1 million.

Jane Erickson, a staff assistant to U.S. Rep. Mel Price, D-Belleville, lauded the action, but lamented that the final measure does not include a House-approved clause which would have authorized another $24 million to complete the improvement of flood control ditches and pump stations.

"To bring the entire system into working order would cost $25 million. The $1 million is just for the first year," Erickson said. "It's going to be a fight for funds every year, but it's a start. A big start."

The $1 million will be used by the Army Corps of Engineers to begin repairs on 14 pump stations and to rebuild bridge structures within the Metro East Sanitary District.

The federal government most likely will have to pick up the tab for all the repairs, she said.

"There's no tax base for the Metro East district to maintain its own system, much less bring it back to working order," Erickson said. "It is without question one of the poorest (economic) areas in the country."

Erickson said the project is unusual because the corps, which built the system, does not usually repair its own work. The corps normally turns its projects over to local authorities to run and maintain.

The system was damaged when flood waters raged through East St. Louis on Oct. 4, 1986. The flooding at that time damaged 1,200 homes and displaced 10,000 people.

Chicago firm named as bond counsel

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The city has moved a step closer to redeveloping its downtown by hiring a bond counsel.

The City Council on Tuesday named the Chicago law firm of Chapman & Cutler to assist the city with developing bond financing for a proposed downtown shopping center.

The city wants to issue about $10 million in bonds using the state's Tax Increment Financing program.

The project, which would tentatively include automobile dealers, a large retail store, a supermarket and small shops, has been estimated to cost about $27 million.

Chapman & Cutler will help the city determine what type of bonds would be best to issue for the project, said the city's economic director, Alan Ortbals.

Ortbals said the law firm will produce legal documents neces-

Police applications available in Madison

By Donna Kimbro
Staff writer

MADISON — Applications for appointment as a police officer of the City of Madison are available until March 1, Bruce Trotts, a member of the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners, told the City Council.

Interested persons may pick up an application at the dispatcher's desk at the Madison Police Station between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. weekdays. The completed form must be returned to the police department no later than March 8.

Trotts said a tentative date of March 15 has been set for testing of applicants, but it will depend on the weather since outdoor tests are planned.

To be eligible, an applicant must be at least 21 and not more than 35 years old; weigh in proportion to height (final determination will be made by the department physician); possess a valid driver license; pass a physical examination; pass a written examination; pass agility tests; participate in oral interviews; pass a background investigation administered by the commission; reside in Madison, as per City Ordinance 1099, Section 2; and have a high school diploma or General Educational Development equivalency certificate.

Currently, there are 10 police officers and Chief of Police Charles Bridick.

There are no immediate plans to hire another officer, but the compilation of a list of tested applicants will provide the department with information on eligible men in the event a replacement is needed, a spokesman said.

Simon's matching funds amount to $1.5 million

By Judy Fahys
P-R/J Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — Taxpayers have made another contribution to the campaigns of Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois and the other presidential hopefuls.

The Federal Election Commission gave 11 candidates $4.4 million on Jan. 13, with $110,964 going to the Illinois Democrat's campaign war chest.

Taxpayers create the fund by checking the $1 contribution box on their annual income tax returns. The government matches small contributions ($250 or less) dollar-for-dollar in states where the candidate has raised more than $5,000 in small contributions.

The FEC reviews applications for each candidate monthly, but candidates can make special requests for the funds every two weeks.

The new infusion of cash for Simon brings the total amount of federal money received by his campaign to $1.5 million.

Gary Hart, the Democrat who withdrew from the race for seven months last year, received $837,000 in the most recent distribution of funds. Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis is not expected to apply for funds until late January, and a special request by Jesse Jackson was denied because of incorrect paperwork.

Paul Simon
Funds come in

Other Democrats who received matching funds in the latest round are former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt ($22,829), Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore Jr. ($219,456) and St. Louis Rep. Richard A. Gephardt ($173,615).

A Republican, former television evangelist Pat Robertson, collected the largest single matching funds check, $1 million, bringing his matching funds total to $5.5 million.

Vice President George Bush, who received a $400,000 check Jan. 13, has received the largest amount of matching funds for candidates of both parties, nearly $6.2 million.

The other Republicans receiving funds were Senate Republican Leader Robert Dole of Kansas ($933,572), former Delaware Gov. Pete DuPont ($173,210), former Secretary of State Alexander Haig ($18,083) and New York U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp ($451,771).

FEC spokeswoman Karen Finucan said the election commission automatically withholds some of the money that candidates say they are entitled to, based on their rate of errors. This reserve balance allows the FEC to release most of the money to the campaigns promptly without risking overpayment, she said.

Candidates list income

WASHINGTON — Only two of the four Democratic candidates seeking Rep. Mel Price's congressional seat had filed financial disclosures by Jan. 6, federal records show.

St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello filed with the Clerk of the House last July 20 and Madison County Auditor Pete Fields filed Nov. 17. There were no filings from Mike Mansfield or Steve Maragides.

(Mansfield said he is filing a report showing he earned $62,242 from the federal government in 1987, a year in which his wife earned $34,977 from a non-federal job. In 1986, he was paid $60,171 and she was paid $28,168.)

In 1986, Costello earned $39,510 from his job as board chairman; $24,581 from the Metro East Retail Corp., which he half owns; and $3,037 from his poston on the board of the East Side Health District in East St. Louis.

Fields earned $38,418 from Madison County in 1986; $270 from a Veterans Administration pension; and $22,072 in commissions from Brown Realtors.

Baer School closing

MADISON — Emma Bosworth said, "I realize next year is going to be an experimental year. But I don't like the thought of my son being a guinea pig in your trial-and-error system."

She was one of 30 concerned parents and District 12 employees who attended a Jan. 7 public hearing on the planned mid-1988 closing of Louis Baer Elementary School.

Louis Baer has an enrollment of 161 students. The school serves all of District 12's fourth and fifth grade students, and is being closed due to a $184,000 reduction in state funding to the district as a result of 1987 vetoes of state aid appropriations.

Perjak drops her bid

GRANITE CITY — Not wanting to split local Democrats, 4th Ward Alderwoman Sharon Perjak has withdrawn her bid to become Madison County auditor. Perjak withdrew her name from he Democratic primary ballot late Thursday afternoon, the last day to withdraw.

BAC election petitions

GRANITE CITY — Petitions to change Belleville Area College elections are on the street.

Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, said Friday that he is behind the areawide petition drive. The drive's purpose is to let voters choose if they want to continue at-large elections or change to electing BAC Board of Trustees members from sub-districts.

Wolf said the petitions are necessary because St. Clair County residents are the only persons being elected to the board from an eight-county region.

APA shelter to be closed

GRANITE CITY — Lack of money and volunteers is forcing the closing of the only private animal shelter in the city.

Members of the Association for the Protection of Animals voted Monday to close their animal adoption shelter at 5000 Old Alton Road and not to accept any further animals. The shelter will stay open until homes can be found for the remaining animals.

Members will maintain the building, continue to meet monthly and raise money to possibly reopen.

Troop 12 to serve chili dinner Friday

Boy Scout Troop 12 will sponsor an all-you-can-eat chili supper from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Jan. 22 at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, 20th Street and Delmar Avenue.

Cost will be $2.50 per person. Proceeds will be used to purchase a utility trailer for storing camp gear, Cubmaster Cliff Ferris said.

Scouts participated in many community activities during December, the "Service Month" for the troop.

Last month, Scouts assisted the Granite City Junior Service Club in cleaning up the Granite City Township Hall after its annual "Breakfast with Santa." The club donated $26 to the troop for the service, and Scouts, in turn, agreed to use the money to aid three needy families.

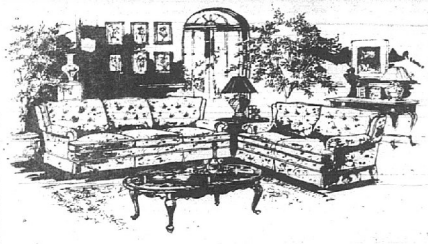

Participating in the project were: Jack Carmody, Cliff Ferris III, Phillip Dean, Kris Huckleberry, George Wilkerson and Shawn Stacey.

The boys also helped ring bells for the Salvation Army on Dec. 12 and 13.

They delivered baskets of food and gifts to local families, then met at Niedringhaus School for a holiday party of games, songs and refreshments. Those attending were Dean, Ferris, James Holmes, Kris Huckleberry, David Siar, Eric Love, Wilkerson and Stacey. Guests were Doug Stratton and Amos Lanier.

Troop 12 is sponsored by Niedringhaus School PTA, and Scouts meet from 7 to 8 p.m. each Monday. Any boy interested in scouting is invited to attend.

Pickup rammed after argument on citizens band

A citizens band radio conversation apparently resulted in a pickup truck being rammed by another truck.

Charles A. Walker, 33, 4161 Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, was arrested on a charge of reckless conduct on a complaint signed by Keith R. Valenzuela, 33, 2435 Washington Ave., who was a passenger in a pickup truck that was knocked about 30 feet by the impact.

Terry H. Means, 40, 1207 Kirkpatrick Homes, said he became involved in an argument with a man called "Chuck" while talking on a CB radio Jan. 14.

A man pulled up to Means' truck in the 2700 block of East 24th Street. Means said he left Valenzuela and got out to confront Walker. In minutes, Walker allegedly got back into his pickup, spun his tires in reverse and rammed Means' truck, breaking the headlights and grille and damaging the radiator and transmission.

Walker was later arrested at his home. He was issued traffic tickets charging he left an accident scene and had driven with a suspended license. He was released on $204 cash bail.

2 squad cars wrecked in separate chases

GRANITE CITY — Two squad cars were involved in collisions with fleeing suspects in separate incidents, one involving a stolen automobile and the other the burglary of a women's clothing shop.

Paul Allen Damrath, 27, 2153 Bern Ave., was charged with auto theft and issued traffic tickets after he allegedly fled in a stolen car from police who chased him from 23rd Street and Madison Avenue to Nameoki Road.

At 3:33 a.m. Jan. 9, Stanley Wells, 1907 Fourth St., East Madison, reported his 1979 TransAm Pontiac had been taken from the 1600 block of Madison Avenue.

Patrolmen saw the car on Madison Avenue and chased it to the 3100 block of Nameoki Road, where the stolen auto was boxed in by three police cars.

Damrath allegedly made an attempt to break free of the trap by backing into an unoccupied 1987 Chevrolet police vehicle.

Damrath was charged with going 75 mph in a 35 mph zone on Madison Avenue, disobeying a traffic light at 27th Street, and fleeing and attempting to elude police.

In the second incident, two East St. Louis men were charged with burglary Jan. 10 after about $2,000 in clothing was taken from Queen's Wear Boutique, 23 Nameoki Village Shopping Center.

Charged were Michael Anthony Edwards, 19, and Wilford Nepoleon Jones, 37.

About 12:24 a.m. patrolmen were sent to the shop after an alarm sounded. Police found the front door had been broken out and saw a pile of clothing outside the door. No one was found inside the shop.

When the owner, Willowdeen Walker, arrived, she said several racks of clothing appeared to be missing.

Minutes later, patrolmen chased the suspects west on Edwardsville Road.

When Edwards' car braked sharply at 20th Street and Washington Avenue, it was struck from behind by a 1985 squad car driven by Patrolman Michael Gagich.

Edwards and Jones then allegedly jumped out of their car while it was still in motion and it continued on, bouncing off Gagich's car, which had pulled to the left of the vehicle.

The suspects' car left the road and struck the fence of Jerry Ragan, 1412 25th St.

Edwards was also charged with fleeing and attempting to elude police, speeding, driving without headlights, and disobeying a traffic control device.

Both were transferred to the Madison County jail.

Wallet, $5 removed

Deloris Hill, 1001 Fourth St., Venice, said Jan. 8 that a thief removed a wallet from her purse, which was in a shopping cart at Schnucks Market. About $5 was in the wallet.

Hockey skates stolen

Ice hockey skates with blade guards, valued at $65, were stolen from a bench outside the Wilson Park ice rink, Brandy Tadlock, 2805 Iowa St., reported Jan. 8.

Burglar ransacks home

Nothing was immediately determined to be missing following a burglary at the home of Jeanne Michel, 2314 Logan Ave. The intruder ransacked the house and may have cooked some food, she reported Jan. 8. Entry was gained through a window.

Crash awakens resident

A crashing sound awakened A.G. Overfleet, 2431 E. 23rd St., who found glass broken in the rear door and saw two people running from the backyard into the alley Jan. 8. An officer tracked footprints to the 2400 block of Lincoln Avenue. An investigation is continuing.

Conduct charge filed

When a police officer was on official business at an address in the 2400 block of East 25th Street Jan. 8, Ryan E. Smith, 27, of 2429 E. 25th St., began questioning the officer and then went across the street, the officer said.

Smith, who did not live at the residence where the officer was standing, then returned and allegedly began shouting and cursing the officer. He was charged with disorderly conduct and later was released after posting bail.

Contempt warrant served

Ricky L. Cox, 31, of 3901 Oakmont Drive, Pontoon Beach, was arrested Jan. 9 in the 2100 block of Dewey Avenue on a warrant alleging contempt of court.

Two charged with theft after pursuit by police

An officer and a K mart security guard pursued and captured two men who allegedly stole items from the store Jan. 15.

The auto pursuit started near the store and continued along Fehling Road onto Idaho Street, where some items were thrown from the vehicle, the policeman alleged.

As the police officer twice drew near the fleeing car, the driver slowed down as if to stop and then speeded up again, reports said.

The fleeing auto was halted by the squad car and the officer alleged finding a 30-foot tape measure outside the driver's door on the ground. Another item allegedly was inside the auto.

The security guard recovered a cordless electric drill and a 30-foot measuring tape at Troy and St. James avenues.

Charged with retail theft were Jerry Wayne Phillips, 30, East St. Louis, and Joseph Christian Kitchen, 37, St. Louis. Kitchen was further charged with reckless driving and with fleeing and attempting to elude a police officer.

The vehicle was ordered held until the owner is determined.

A K mart security officer reported seeing two men grab some items while in the tool section of the store and place them in their coats. The pair was confronted at the exit door but fled to a car and left the parking area.

Cash gone from purse

Kathleen Endicott, 4912 Kirkpatrick Homes, reported Jan. 15 that someone stole $100 from a purse left on the kitchen table at her home.

Arrested with air gun

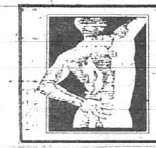

Richard Allen Mauer, 18, 2430 Glen Place, was booked for unlawful discharge of an air gun on Jan. 15. Police alleged Mauer was shooting the air pistol up into trees in front of 3711 Kirkpatrick Homes. He was released after posting $52 bail.

Man injured at tavern

Lawrence Hayden, 31, 1345 Meridian St., reported Jan. 16 that while he was arguing with another man over a pool game at the 19th Hole Tavern, 2401 Washington Ave., the man punched him in the head and knocked him to the floor. The assailant then struck him several times with his fists, Hayden said. Hayden drove to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and was treated for cuts to the mouth area and a three-inch cut to the forehead.

Parked boat looted

A depth gauge worth $630 and a turbo boat propeller valued at $400 were stolen from a 1986 Ranger boat parked in the driveway at the home of Edward J. Brandes, 1565 Garfield Ave., he reported Jan. 15.

Detractors say Dick Allen 'do-nothing' state's attorney

This is the first in a series examining the Madison County State's Attorney's Office. Help in gathering information for the series was provided by Tim Wiemers, a staff affiliate.

By D.W. Henderson
Staff affiliate

Priority functions of county government are protecting the public and prosecuting criminals.

For four years much of this function has been the responsibility of Dick Allen, Granite City, Madison County's state's attorney.

Dick Allen
Under fire

His performance — particularly with coming elections — will be judged by voters in the primary March 15.

Allen's detractors are everywhere, from area police chiefs who say cooperation is lacking to the political candidates who hope to take his place.

Among dissatisfied law enforcement officials is Alton Police Chief Don Sandidge.

Sandidge said cooperation with police departments and energetic prosecutions are absent under Allen.

Several other area police chiefs agreed, but said they would not go "on the record" for fear of damaging what little cooperation they get out of Allen's office.

All criticized Allen's quickness to plea bargain.

"I don't know what's causing it, but it looks like he would rather wheel and deal instead of going to trial. I hear complaints from our officers all the time that they don't go to trial anymore," Sandidge said.

He said convictions on most murders in Alton resulted from plea bargaining by Allen's office. Sandidge said sentences weren't as stiff as they should have been.

Alton police are critical that arrests made in eight murder cases dating to 1986 have not resulted in prosecution. Granite City police have voiced similar concern about slow prosecution.

Several chiefs compared Allen's office to that of St. Louis Circuit Attorney George Peach. Peach's record shows only 3.5 percent of the cases in St. Louis resulted in dropped charges or lesser charges due to a deal being made. More than 96 percent pleaded as charged.

"Our position is that a criminal defendant should plead to the crime we feel he did, or he should have a trial," Peach said.

Sandidge said there is a lack of energy in the Madison County State's Attorney's Office and that adds to the problem of poor communication.

"We used to have meetings with them to talk matters over. We don't have that anymore," he said.

Sandidge criticized the state's attorney's office for not pursuing charges on cases the chief said should have been pursued.

"They say they were bad cases, but they were good enough to go to trial in the past," Sandidge said.

Another disgruntled chief who requested anonymity said, "It's frustrating when you send people over there (to Allen's office) with what you think are good cases and they won't issue warrants. It's almost like they want to see blood dripping off of the report."

Sandidge said, "You can't have every case airtight when you go over there. That's utopia."

One chief called Allen "the lousiest state's attorney we've ever had in the county. I could tell you all sorts of things, but it would be political suicide."

Former state's attorney Don Weber, a Republican defeated by Allen in 1984, again seeks the office and is blasting his successor.

Madison County State's Attorney

ELECTION 1988

"During my four years in office the crime rate decreased. During Allen's term in office the crime rate increased," he said.

He said crime in general was going down during his term in office, and has been slightly on the rise during Allen's tenure, but pointed out both trends beat the average.

"While it was going down, I was doing better, and while it's going up, he's doing worse," said Weber.

Weber said the Madison County Democratic Party's recent nomination of William Haine, Alton, over the incumbent, Allen, "is a stunning repudiation" of the state's attorney.

Haine, who unsuccessful sought the office eight years ago, was endorsed by county Democrats last month. It is rare when the party doesn't endorse an incumbent.

Weber criticized Allen, saying Allen showed a lack of experience and lack of desire.

"The man has never in his life prosecuted a case. He has a full-time public relations man, he's got a guy that screens cases, he's got a woman that runs the felony division, he's got someone else that does the victim witness program. All of those people are doing jobs that I was doing when I was state's attorney," Weber said. "So my question is, what is he (Allen) doing?"

Weber and Haine said Allen has done badly at working with the Department of Children and Family Services.

"Allen's statistics are really bad," Haine said. "There were 181 abuse neglect petitions filed in 1986. Of those only nine cases, less than 5 percent, remained wards of the court. That's incredible to me."

Everyone connected in the local DCFS offices declined to comment. The department handles child abuse cases in the county.

Haine said another thing missing in Madison County's system of justice "is a state's attorney who aggressively administers an office with the victim's rights in mind."

Several people in Allen's victim's assistance program, who asked not to be identified, said they were unhappy with their treatment by Allen.

"He is impossible to get hold of, and your telephone calls are never returned," one said.

According to the Circuit Court records on disposition of defendants, under Weber in 1983-84 compared to Allen in 1985-86, felony convictions decreased 26 percent, jury trials dropped 15 percent, bench trials decreased 32.5 percent, trials of felonies decreased 21 percent, and all convictions declined by 12 percent under Allen.

Also under Allen, the dismissal of felony charges increased 24 percent and acquittals have risen by 37.5 percent.

Next week: State's Attorney Dick Allen responds to criticism concerning the job he is doing.

A one-car accident caused about $500 damage to a tree, shrubs and landscaping on the property of David and Ellen Wilson, 12 Terrace Lane, on Jan. 12.

Driver Trisha J. Cruse, 120 Briarcliff Drive, said she was going north on Terrace when her car began to skid on damp pavement. She said that after she applied the brakes the car continued to skid into the Wilsons' yard. She was issued a ticket for speeding.

A 14-year-old high school student said he was beaten by another student on a school bus in front of the bus driver and other students while the bus was halted on the high school parking lot at 3:20 p.m. Jan. 11.

The student said a 17-year-old youth boarded the bus and tried to provoke a fight. When the younger boy refused, the youth grabbed him and pulled out a handful of his hair. The student said his attacker then used fists to strike him in the face in the view of the bus driver, who allegedly did nothing to intervene. Police found bruises on the student's neck.

music, including children's and adult music.

She is certified to teach vocal music education to kindergarten through 12th grade pupils in both Missouri and Nebraska and will seek certification in Illinois.

Edwards taught vocal music at both elementary and secondary levels in the Mitchell, Neb., school system, where she was responsible for planning and presenting various concerts and the high school music festival.

Her other duties included the junior high special chorus and the high school select swing choir.

Edwards was a permanent substitute teacher for the vocal music department at Mehlville High School, St. Louis, where she was a student teacher. She also was employed for a two-year period as manager of Cloth World, St. Louis.

The last music teacher in the Venice public schools was Dr. Alice Purdes who, for the past six years, has been teaching General Education Development subjects to adults at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center.

Purdes taught general music programs for 17 years at Venice Grade School. She also was music teacher at Venice High School for about six years and directed the high school chorus, an after-school activity.

Music was of great interest to Venice students in those years, Purdes recalled.

Out of a high school enrollment of about 150, at one time there were 123 members in the high school chorus, she said.

sary in bond financing and make sure the bonds are tax exempt. He said tax-exempt bonds are much easier to sell than non-exempt bonds and are crucial in the financing process.

There is also a question on how TIF funds, which are annual appropriations, can be used for bond financing.

The city designated most of its downtown area as a TIF district and receives a state allotment because of its TIF area. But the allotment depends on how much the legislature appropriates to TIF each year.

Orthals said Chapman & Cutler has worked with bond issues involving TIF funds. "This is one reason we need Chapman & Cutler — to guide us through all this," Orthals said.

The firm does not sell bonds. It will charge from $250 to $750 for preliminary legal work.

If the city issues $10 million in bonds, the firm will charge $6,200. The figure is much lower than six other companies which submitted prices for bond work to the city.

The bond issue would mainly be used to buy property in the 37-acre project site.

The remaining candidates interviewed were: Frances Braswell, a former BAC trustee from Belleville; Van Smith, Belleville; Elmer Liefer, Red Bud; Gaither Jones, Belleville; and Janet McReynolds, Belleville. Alan Farris, a candidate from Sparta, was unable to attend.

Candidates Dan Hentscher, Red Bud, Jim Hull, Belleville, Ray Spahr, Red Bud, and Eileen Gordon, Chester, have withdrawn, board Secretary Kathryn Rowold said.

Trustees have until Feb. 16 to appoint Eckert's replacement. After that, the Illinois Community College Board would appoint someone. It's the board's intention to appoint a new member rather than the ICCB, Jenner said.

a "C-4" classification, which allowed the building to be built up to the boundary lines of adjacent property.

Jakich said one side of the new building is about two feet from Granite City Public Library property. The library is building a branch library on its property.

"We didn't want him to do that," Jakich said. But he said that Assistant City Attorney John Hopkins offered an opinion that the city had no option but to allow Jones to build close to adjacent property, because of the ruling.

The property also does not meet a minimum area land size requirement for the C-4 zoning class, which is five acres. The ruling said nothing about the city's minimum size requirement.

Jones said the city has approved his building plans and issued him a building permit. He said he is meeting all building and parking requirements.

Jones said his telephone systems business, Commercial Telephone Systems Inc., will probably move into the new building in about a month. He said he has been operating his business in Granite City since 1975.

4 charges against man

After an officer saw a car with a loud muffler traveling east on West 21st Street at Illinois Avenue, with the vehicle weaving from lane to lane, he followed and stopped John R. Krug, 20, 2301 Ohio Ave., at West 23rd Street and Logan Avenue.

Krug declined to take a breathalyzer test and, at police headquarters, allegedly shouted profanity and kicked the interview room door. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, disorderly conduct, improper use of a registration, and operating a vehicle with a loud muffler.

Charged with DUI after police chase in East Alton

Timothy Aaron Bladdick, 21, Granite City, was charged Jan. 17 by East Alton authorities with driving under the influence of alcohol, disobeying a flashing red light and reckless driving.

Police allege seeing him fail to stop for a flashing red light at Illinois 3 and Niagara Avenue. Authorities then pursued a car for one mile before stopping it on the Illinois 3 overpass just south of the Olin Corp. plant. Police reported topping speeds of 80 mph during the pursuit.

Bladdick was taken to the Wood River Police Station, where a breath analysis test was performed.

Automobile strikes man cleaning car window

Mark W. Kuehnel, 26, Bethalto, was arrested after his vehicle allegedly struck a man cleaning a car window at 2:14 a.m. Jan. 8 in the 1100 block of Niedringhaus Avenue.

David A. Weber, Maryville, said he was wiping the rear window of his parked car when a car going east veered toward him and then hit both him and his automobile.

Weber, who was not hospitalized, gave patrolmen what he believed was the license plate number of the hit-and-run vehicle. A car with that number later was found parked at Huck's Convenient Store, Madison and Niedringhaus avenues. Kuhnel, the owner of the car, was found in the store's restroom.

He denied involvement in the accident and declined a breath test. He was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, having no valid driver license, failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident and leaving the scene of an accident with injuries. Cash bail was set at $320.

Venice flies 3 charges

Nathan C. Crane, 21, 3727 Cedarview Court, Granite City, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, speeding and careless driving at 4 a.m. Jan. 13 at Broadway and Market Street, Venice.

Crane's station wagon was traveling west on Broadway when seen by an officer, who alleged the motorist was speeding and driving on the median divider. Crane consented to a breathalyzer test, which was taken at the Madison Police Station.

FEET FIRST

GETTING COLD FEET
By Dr. Claude Hiles

Immersion foot, or chilblain, is probably the most common cold-related injury to affect the feet. It can occur in temperatures as high as 60 degrees F. and a low as freezing and below-freezing. A damp environment, such as that inside a wet shoe, is often a contributing condition. Immersion foot most commonly affects those with poor circulation, particularly women who wear tight-fitting shoes that reduce circulation to the forefoot. Symptoms of immersion foot include a whitish color in the affected area, some swelling (edema) caused by the build-up of protective fluid under the skin, blistering from the edema, itching, and some pain. Aside from avoiding cold, damp conditions, treatment includes analgesics, whirlpools to increase circulation, and a change in footwear.

Daily attention to the feet should be included in your routine health care. This includes basic hygiene practices, rotating the shoes you wear from day to day, and improving the circulation to the feet. Contact a podiatrist for periodic foot exams and instructions on proper foot care. My office provides quality foot care for the entire family, including treatment of pediatric disorders, skin conditions, bone and joint problems, and foot and leg disorders. Preventive medicine is emphasized. Office hours by appointment at 1930 State Street. Telephone, 877-6025. BC/BS, John Hancock, Medicare, and most major insurances.

Carelessness factor in some fire losses, deaths

Recent fires, causing multiple deaths and great losses, could have been avoided, according to the Illinois Office of the State Fire Marshal.

"A little thoughtfulness and attention to common sense safety could have prevented much of the loss of recent days," State Fire Marshal Thomas Bestudik said.

"This is especially true of families who use space heaters and don't take the time to follow the manufacturer's instructions, use improper fuel or place the heater too close to flammable and combustible materials," he said.

"Only 1-K kerosene should be used in kerosene space heaters, not gasoline or some other volatile fuel that happens to be available.

"Placing a portable heater too close to bedclothes, curtains or other flammable materials is asking for trouble," Bestudik said.

"There is no substitute for common sense and care in any endeavor during these cold days," he said. "Most accidents are caused by those who do not think or who do not follow the safe practices they ordinarily accept."

In 1986, the last year for which statistics are available, there were 21,881 residential fires in Illinois, about 9 percent of all fires. However, the 213 deaths from these residential fires were 50 percent of the state total for all fires.

The dollar loss, approximately $117.9 million, was more than 27 percent of the state dollar loss from all fires in 1986.

Potential state prison sites narrowed to six

Director Michael P. Lane of the Department of Corrections has announced that six communities will be considered for the site of a new prison, the third in a group including Mt. Sterling and Canton. The six communities are Decatur, Flora, Rend Lake Conservancy District (Mt. Vernon), Robinson, Streator and Taylorville.

The process of selecting a community as the site of a third prison was discontinued by Lane on April 22. Thirty-one cities remained of those requesting initial consideration.

"Continued pressing space needs for adult inmates make it necessary for the selection process to be rekindled," Lane said. "Simply put, the state can no longer wait without falling behind in developing space for the ever-increasing number of adults sentenced to prison."

Bureau of the Budget Director Robert Mandeville said the new prison has been included in the upcoming capital budget to be presented to the General Assembly.

He said that budget cuts totaling more than $350 million made last July have allowed the state to more easily plan for the $15 million operating budget of the new prison when it opens in 1991.

Since February, when Gov. James Thompson initiated the site selection process for the third prison, the adult population has increased by 420, more than half the capacity of a new 750-bed facility.

Today's adult prison population of almost 20,000 is 25 percent more than the design capacity of the adult system.

By early 1990, when construction at Mt. Sterling and Canton is complete, the prison population is projected to be 21,200. By July 1992, the total is expected to reach 23,000.

"New construction is also necessary to alleviate crowding at the four oldest prisons: Joliet, Menard, Pontiac and Stateville," said Lane.

"Crowding is a main contributor to the violence that permeates these antiquated facilities."

Public hearings will be scheduled soon in Decatur, Mt. Vernon, Robinson and Taylorville.

Hearings will not be held in Flora or Streator since sessions were conducted in those communities previously. Lane will make his recommendation to Gov. Thompson shortly after the hearing process.

"The decision to reduce the number of communities under consideration to six was difficult," said Lane. "All 31 groups gave excellent presentations, and all were exceptionally cooperative.

"As we explained to each group of community leaders as they made brief presentations in 1987, only one area would be pleased with our decision — 30 communities would be disappointed," Lane said.

In addition to a technical evaluation of specific sites proposed by the various communities, agency personnel reviewed public records to rate the groups on unemployment, change in unemployment, the number of state employees, household income, population changes, minority representation, and changes in farm income.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Recently a divorced woman with two children came to this office inquiring about a will. She was concerned that if she died while the children were still young that her former husband would get custody. She also wanted to be certain that her ex-husband did not recieve any of her property at the time of her death.

In this case, the couple had obtained a divorce five years earlier. There were two children, and the wife obtained custody. During the intervening years, the father had little contact with the children and refused to pay child support. The mother in this situation hoped to name a custodian for the children in her will and thereby bypass the father in the event she should die at a young age.

We should first explore what would happen if this woman died without a will. In terms of her property, it would all go to her children. Her former spouse would recieve nothing in this situation. With regard to custody, the Court would place the minors based on what was in the "best interest of the children." If the father expressed an interest, one would have to think that in most situations the Court would award custody to him unless he was unfit.

Are there advantages, then, to this woman having a will? One thing to be gained is that she can designate that the children's property should be left in trust at the time of her death. This is known as a testamentary trust and it allows the person making the will to name a responsible person to administer the money and use it wisely on behalf of the children. The mother in the will could not only name a trustee for the trust, but she could also indicate at what age the children should recieve their entire trust share.

Can she bypass the father as custodian by naming someone else in the will? As previously indicated, the Court will award custody at the time of her death based on the "best interests of the children." By naming someone else in the will, it seems to this writer that she is at least presenting the Court with an alternative to the natural father. Hopefully, the wishes of the mother expressed in the will would have some influence on the Judge at the time he makes his decision regarding custody.

Q. We've heard a lot of pros and cons concerning two-income families. We've considered these and have decided my wife will return to work for the first time in nine years. Do you have any warnings about the new financial structure of our family?

A. Yes. You need to be aware there is sometimes a situation created when an extra breadearner begins bringing in that extra paycheck. The temptation to build up too great a debt load. The erroneous reasoning is: We have more coming in, therefore we can afford to do some of the things we've always wanted. Always temper that reasoning with the stark realization of why you now have two incomes instead of one: Because apparently one was not quite enough. A good rule of thumb is don't commit more than 20 percent of after-tax income to monthly installment payments (not including the mortgage). Liquidate the debts which worried you enough to become a two-income family, THEN begin thinking in terms of some of the things you've always wanted.

No taxation without fair representation

Madison County is without representation on the Belleville Area College Board.

To let that condition continue would be, to use vernacular appropriate to BAC board members — it'd be hogwash.

To be gittin' to the plain 'n' simple, the folks elected from the eight-county BAC district come from one county, St. Clair. Yet board members, from the boonies of Mascoutah and rural Freeburg, and Belleville, are of a mind that they serve the entire district, including this steel town.

Shucks, even board members Lizzy Jenner and Teddy Farmer ought to know that's hogwash.

This county pays a third of the district's taxes, but elects no spokesperson, and that's a fact, despite the hogwash St. Clair County's board wants us to be a-swallowin' and a-wallowin' in.

Madison County won't be served until we elect our own representatives.

We applaud Rep. Sam Wolf's petition drive to guarantee fair representation on the BAC board.

To let St. Clair County continue to hog the board would be, well, that'd be hogwash.

Big task awaits delegates

Who do you trust to represent your views at this year's presidential nominating conventions?

In the 21st Congressional District, Democrats who favor Sen. Paul Simon will vote for Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, Charles Hester, State Central Committeeman Bruce Cook, LaRona Morris and L. Thomas Lakin; Gephardt backers will support John Rekowski, Danny Wilcox, William Rekowski and James Watt; Babbitt enthusiasts will try to elect Peggy Funkhouser, William Funkhouser, Carolyn Davis, Kelvin Ellis and Robert Hildebrand;

The Rev. Jesse Jackson's supporters will back John Q. Owens Sr., Robert Mays, Toni Perrin, Paula Johnson, Barbara Conrad, Richard Younge and Rick Russo; Dukakis partisans will line up behind Marguerite Dubbelde, Barbara Morales, Jeanette Weatherall, Constantinos Papadopoulos and Theodore Amigdalos; those hoping for a Hart victory will support Ronald Goforth, John Kullum, David Randle, Jayme Wieduwilt and Robert Gergen; and Gore adherents will cast delegate votes for Matthew Ryan, Shirley Thomas, David Thomas and David Moody.

Republican national convention delegate candidates are: for Bush, J. Thomas Long, Don Weber and Dennis Rickhoff; for Dole, State Central Committeeman Edward Ragsdale, State Rep. Ron Stephens and Craig MacDonald; for Robertson, Cheryl McCalmon, Larry Baden and Michael Dyer; and, for Kemp, Phyllis Schlafly, Frank Watson and Robert Glenn.

The issue of which individuals to trust is pertinent because, even if delegates remain loyal to the person they have endorsed, circumstances can change rapidly during the convention sessions. Particularly when some of the presidential hopefuls drop out of the race, delegates' judgment will have to be relied upon in determining which bandwagon they should climb aboard, and the timing.

Politics and political conventions are fascinating, and even more so when there are no incumbents, creating the potential for relatively wide-open fighting, debating and maneuvering.

The delegates, and those whom they nominate, will be shouldering heavy responsibilities this summer.

Voters must pick 7 new judges

There is no question that 1988 will be an exciting election year. How could it miss? The ballot will include battles for such offices as president, congressman and state's attorney.

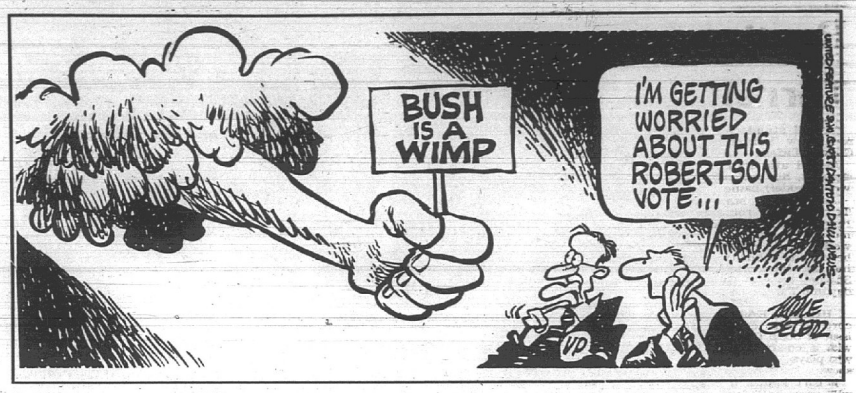

Adding to the interest in the election is the rivalry for a number of other positions. Even judicial posts, normally a low-profile prize, have generated spirited contests this year.

With Joseph H. Goldenhersh retiring from the Illinois Supreme Court, there is a crowded field for the Democratic nomination — Horace L. Calvo, Charles J. Kolker, Carl H. Becker and Robert S. Hill. Opposing one of them in November will be Republican Thomas Welch.

Retirements also affect two Fifth Appellate District judgeships. To replace John Karns, Robert Keenan is running as a Republican and there are three Democratic contenders — Charles Chapman, Stephen Kernan and Lehman Krause. To succeed Justice Charles Jones, those competing are William "Chuck" Evers (R), Andreas Matoesian (D), Robert Mays (D) and Robert Howerton (D).

In addition, two new Fifth Appellate Court positions have been created by the state. One is sought by J. Thomas Long (R) and Philip Rarick (D) and the other is sought by Donald Lowery (R) and Richard Goldenhersh (D).

Adding in two Third Circuit judgeships that will be decided in '88 (one involving a vacancy and one a newly created post), we cannot recall any past elections here in which court campaigns were so important and so numerous. It will be especially vital for all voters to take part in both the March 15 primary balloting and the autumn general election.

Rebuts Warfield accusation

To the editor:

I would like to respond to an error and accusation printed in an article in the Thursday, Jan. 7, issue of the Press-Record, concerning two candidates for Democratic precinct committeeman being thrown off the ballot.

First, I want to make clear that my wife is not running for Democratic precinct committeeman in the 26th Precinct. I am Virgil N. Kambarian Jr. Secondly, the objection to Danny Warfield's petition was not based on "dirty politics" as Warfield stated. It was based on the election laws of the state of Illinois.

I don't consider Danny or Mac Warfield my enemies, but whether or not I am a supporter of Mac Warfield is not the issue. The real issue is that as citizens, we are all accountable to the same set of laws, no matter how minor or insignificant they may seem to be.

Danny Warfield filled out his petition incorrectly. He did not state for what office he was running. Warfield was held accountable for his actions by the County Electoral Board, as anyone who does not fill out his petition correctly should be.

Although Warfield made an innocent mistake, it was a mistake that invalidated his petition. If no one in Madison County has challenged petitions in the past, maybe it's time someone does.

To me the issue is this: If you want to run for office, you have to begin by filling out the petition correctly. That's not dirty politics — that's the law!

VIRGIL N. KAMBARIAN JR.

Comments on vote fraud story

To the editor:

I read your story about Pete Fields exposing voter fraud in East St. Louis, and I began to wonder why that was a story anyone in Madison County would care about. If St. Clair County wants to play dirty, that is its business. However, if you think about it a minute, you see that if there are bogus votes being cast in East St. Louis in a congressional election, then the votes of Madison County count for less then they should.

I don't see how one county can make another county play fair. The United States Attorney's office is suppose to watch over such things but, as Fields said, it hasn't done anything about it.

The voters of Madison County are having their votes cheapened. I can see why people don't bother to vote.

We go out on a cold morning to punch a few holes in a card while thinking we are being democratic. And not too far away, 2,000 ghost votes are being cast. Two thousand voters are having their right to vote taken away by a few people who have big money.

And what about the press? Pete Fields says he found many illegal voters with not much effort. Why didn't the press make this discovery? Is investigative journalism something we only read about? The only good I can find in this is the fact that it was one of the politicians (Pete Fields) who told us what was happening.

Gives pat on back to Pete Fields

To the editor:

Pete Fields isn't the first one to recognize vote fraud in East St. Louis, but he is the first one to acknowledge that the problem does not end with the city or its residents.

Everyone has seemed to assume that East St. Louis wanted it that way — a very racist attitude: "Those people don't really want to exercise their rights anyway..." Bunk!

Many East St. Louisans, and Johnny Scott is one of them, are trying to change the system.

Congratulations to Pete Fields for attempting to draw East St. Louis and the rest of St. Clair County into the 20th century before the 21st begins.

St. Clair should fight vote fraud

To the editor:

Regarding the vote fraud in East St. Louis which Madison County Auditor Pete Fields recently detailed, St. Clair County State's Attorney John Baricevic said he knows it exists, but finds it too hard to prosecute.

Someone needs to remind Mr. Baricevic that that is his job.

If it is beyond him, he should resign. The voters of the congressional district certainly don't want this election decided by some nebulous force outside the system.

Baricevic has been asked time and time again to clean up the voting irregularities in East St. Louis. If he can't do it, it's time he makes sure someone else does.

Media Matters

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive Editor

'Mandarin' name changed, but its purpose remains

"Media Mandarin" seemed to be a good name for a column. But no one understood it.

Since above all a column about the media should communicate, the name had to go and did, kicking and screaming because, like a bad habit, I didn't want to give it up.

To me, it had pizzaz and a logical basis. On June 23, 1985, the week after the first "Media Mandarin" column appeared, it was explained that the name was based on a statement made during a libel trial that pitted St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello against the Belleville News-Democrat.

Costello's attorney, Amiel Cueto, depicted that newspaper as being run by "media mandarins," powerbrokers who form public opinion. Whadda rip!

Newspapers can sway public opinion, but I disagreed with the attorney's colorful characterization of the paper, partly because Cueto's rhetoric was a throwback to the "ivory tower" idea of the media advanced by former Vice President Spiro Agnew. That's exactly the kind of thinking this column has been dedicated to changing.

So that I could not forget the column's purpose, or that there are others with Agnew mentalities, I chose the dubious title of "Media Mandarin" for the column, and have been in agony since.

The problem with the name was that new readers, or regular readers with short memories, didn't have an inkling as to why it had the name. I'd tackle important topics like how the press failed to stop the Challenger disaster, but mixed with reactions to what I'd written would be jokes about why the column was named after little oranges. Really funny, I'm sure.

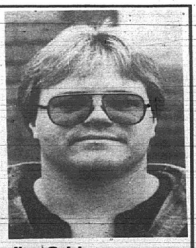

Now, after a lengthy absence, the column returns with the same purpose, but another name, "Media Matters." That name doesn't have the zing of "Media Mandarin," but it shouldn't cause anyone to stay up late figuring it out.

Then again, maybe it will. If so, regular readers of this column will perhaps be cheered by the knowledge that if they stay up late they might get a call from Elvis — but that's another story.

What do you think about Cardinals move?

Considering the offers locally to build stadiums and the many other incentives offered to him, what do you think about team owner Bill Bidwill moving the Cardinals football from St. Louis to Phoenix, Ariz., after a 27-year history here?

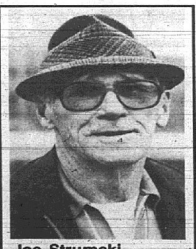

Jim Grider, Granite City

"I think that if that's where he wants to be (Phoenix), that's where he should be. Let him go! I think people are sick of it. We surely can get an expansion team in here. Maybe even a winning team."

Debbie Geggus, Granite City

"I think it's a shame. A lot of revenue is leaving St. Louis and there's the void caused by not having professional football in St. Louis anymore."

Joe Strumski, Pontoon Beach

"In my book, a man can do whatever he wants with his business, but I don't figure how a larger stadium is going to help. He doesn't get the crowds now. And it's too expensive (to go to a football game)."

Terrell 'Mr. Terrific' to viewers

Regional Roundup

By Bill Winter

Terrell stands for Greg Terrell, New Yorker and former Granite Citian.

Terrell also stands for Terrell Anthony, his professional (actor-writer-model) name.

And Terrell stands for Mr. Terrific, for romantic heart-throb, for hunk, or any of a number of other complimentary words and phrases, if you believe the publicity he is receiving in the role of "Rusty Shayne" on the "Guiding Light" daytime TV drama series.

HE IS FEATURED on the cover of the current (Jan. 26) issue of Soap Opera Digest along with a co-star, Krista Tesreau, who plays "Mindy Lewis" on the show.

It isn't known if the scenario will ever call for them to be married. But such pretend weddings have been known to have a big impact on a series' viewer ratings, so it could happen.

WITH TWO YEARS left on his three-year contract with "Guiding Light," he is content to be fine-tuning his acting craft but is looking ahead to eventually doing more script writing than now, and perhaps to teaching acting to others.

Already a veteran of a made-for-TV film that featured Robert Conrad and George Hamilton, Terrell hopes to do more motion pictures as well as participating in stage plays.

His varied experience includes television newscasting, a skill acquired during his college years.

A BORN-AGAIN, Bible-reading Christian who doesn't drink or smoke, the Granite City High School graduate portrays a drug-fighting police detective on the series and has been a juvenile drug counselor in private life.

He is regarded as highly appealing to impressionable young ladies, both in the script and in real life, and is described in the magazine as articulate but enigmatic, an avid reader and listener, and a bit of a non-conformist.

He doesn't smile often, but when he does it is said to have an overpowering effect. And everyone seems convinced of his bright potential for stardom.

SPEAKING OF SHOW business, the Granite City Rotary luncheon speaker Tuesday was Mary Lee Bortnem, box office manager for the 4,100-seat Fabulous Fox Theater. She outlined a variety of upcoming concerts.

The biggest laugh occurred when she was asked if the Fox's new corporate boxes were added to keep the theater from moving to Phoenix. (In case a reader has just returned from several years overseas or in a cave, it should be explained that the football Cardinals are moving to Arizona because of supposedly insufficient profits from such sources as corporate boxes.)

Springtime shows on the vast stage of the elegant old theater will include Reba McEntire, Dionne Warwick with Burt Bacharach, Tammy Wynette with Randy Travis and the Judds, the Muppet Babies, Wayne Newton, Ricky Skaggs, Glen Campbell and, in mid-summer, Marie Osmond.

THE BASIC IDEA of the Fox series is that you can see and hear top entertainment stars without going to the trouble of flying to Las Vegas or other distant cities.

It seems to be working out well and the Fox doesn't even have to hire ushers; they volunteer to work one night a week, or one night a month, in exchange for the opportunity to enjoy the shows.

What the Fox generally doesn't offer are such attractions as Kenny Rogers, who can sell out 18,000 seats at the Arena instead of performing four or five times at the Fox to equal that attendance; Broadway plays, which have been featured at the Fox but are embarking on fewer national tours these days; and such famous singers as Frank Sinatra, who can and does lure $50-a-seat crowds.

THAT WAS THE PRICE, at least, when we flew to Las Vegas to celebrate our most recent wedding anniversary. It was Sinatra's final performance at the Golden Nugget before he switched to the Bally Grand Hotel.

If you read the unauthorized biography of Frank Sinatra in the past few months, you probably will not call him "Mr. Nice Guy," but from the standpoint of raw talent, he hasn't lost much despite his advanced age.

Not only does he still have a sure touch with familiar and less-familiar ballads, but also successfully undertook the long "Carousel" soliloquy in which the hero talks and sings of plans for his future son, or future daughter. I'm not certain of the name of this song, but it may be "My Boy, Bill."

THE FOX THEATER is diversifying into other activities, the speaker said.

For example, it is presenting "The Working Women's Survival Show" Feb. 19-21 at the Cervantes Convention Center.

Fox owners don't need a "commercial" here, judging by the volume of ticket sales, but I'll mention a couple of the "survival" speakers just to give you an idea of the league they're playing in — Oprah Winfrey and Dr. Ruth.

AS I STARTED to say last week before being interrupted by lack of space, the Magna Carta is being displayed through Jan. 31 at the History Museum in the Jefferson Memorial Building in Forest Park.

Dating back to the year 1215, the document is written in Latin on calfskin.

Daily hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., and until 8 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The Magna Carta played a fundamental and expanding role in the protection of individual rights. It will be returned to England in February.

Weber backs Vice President Bush

SPRINGFIELD — Former Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber was a Ronald Reagan backer who battled George Bush in 1980, but on Jan. 8 he was in the Statehouse rotunda as a Bush man to greet his candidate.

Weber and Godfrey attorney J. Thomas Long, the Madison County Republican chairman, were among several hundred who greeted the vice president during his short visit to Springfield.

Weber and Long are on the Bush presidential delegate slate for the Republican national convention from the 21st Congressional District.

Bush came in to acknowledge the endorsement of Secretary of State Jim Edgar, whose support Bush had been courting for several months. Gov. James Thompson had signed on earlier as general chairman of Bush's campaign in Illinois.

Weber said it was "nice for a change to be on the inside with the organization" after being a "maverick" in 1976 and 1980 when he backed Reagan.

He said Bush has changed since he ran against Reagan in 1980 and would now continue Reagan's economic policies.

Weber said Bush's is best qualified to succeed Reagan.

The Jan. 22 seminar will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the auditorium of the Department of Transportation Building, 2300 S. Dirksen Parkway, Springfield. For more information, the number is (217) 782-7110 in Springfield or (312) 917-5067 in Chicago.

Company will manage Pere Marquette lodge

Midwest Property Management of Jacksonville has been selected by the state as concessionaire for the Lodge and Conference Center at Pere Marquette State Park near Alton.

"Pere Marquette has the potential of being a major tourism attraction for the Midwest," said Gov. James R. Thompson.

Midwest Property bid 8 percent of gross revenues plus a capital investment of about $690,000. The company will operate the lodge, restaurant and some outdoor recreation sites. Clarion Hotels and Resorts has given the state a tentative commitment to affiliate the lodge with the company's franchise chain.

The lodge is expected to open to the public by early summer.

New bill strengthens pornography penalty

A bill strengthening laws punishing sellers of pornography has been signed by Gov. James R. Thompson. Under the law, to go into effect July 1, any person or business convicted of a second obscenity offense will forfeit to the state the profits gained from the offense and any property used to commit the offense.

"The profit line is all the seller cares about," Thompson said. "Reduce that and we reduce the problem."

Pregnancy prevention grants aimed at males

Illinois has awarded its first grants aimed toward males responsible in the problem of teen pregnancy. The grants will be used to promote awareness in boys, 10 to 15 years old.

Awards totaling $253,000 have been made to 13 agencies through the "Parents Too Soon" program.

Statue of Dr. King unveiled at Capitol

A statue of the late civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. has been unveiled in the rotunda of the State Capitol in Springfield as part of the ceremonies marking King's birthday Jan. 18.

Gov. James R. Thompson, a national commissioner on the Martin Luther King Jr. Federal Holiday Commission, appointed a state holiday council, which recommended the commissioning of the statue. Illinois was the first state to recognize King's birthday with a holiday in 1973.

Something . . . they don't learn in school!

We are proud to have the opportunity to provide young boys and girls with the responsibility of delivering our newspaper. Responsibility and financial management are two basics that are on the job training when a boy or girl accepts a newspaper delivery route. The responsibility is great because the entire effort of very talented people depends on their delivery of the newspaper on time no matter what weather conditions or other circumstances arise. Being an independent merchant he or she is responsible financially for the payment and collection of monies for newspapers delivered. We recognize the responsibilities both financial and job performance and we would like to congratulate the girls and boys who value this experience and do an excellent job of satisfying our customers.

Show hours will be: 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Wednesday, Jan 27, through Friday; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday; and 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $5 per adult; $2 for children 12 and younger.

Clinton nuclear plant costlier than bigger plant in Missouri

SPRINGFIELD — Union Electric Co. and Illinois Power Co. both began construction of nuclear generators in 1976. But IP's Clinton plant cost one-third more, was finished nearly three years later and is costing Illinois rate-payers substantially more than UE's larger Callaway plant.

IP in November asked the Illinois Commerce Commission to allow it to raise rates of its customers by more than 50 percent, in stages over a period of up to 10 years, to pay for the rest of Clinton.

But UE's Illinois customers have already absorbed practically all of the Callaway cost and are paying lower electric rates than IP customers are now.

According to IP's own figures, a "typical annual residential bill" for its customers under the first year (1989) of its proposed rate hike would be $884, compared to $822 for UE customers.

UE brought its 1,150-megawatt Callaway nuclear plant on line for one-third less than 950-megawatt Clinton.

UE, which operates in Missouri, Iowa and Illinois, also has about twice as many customers to pass on the cost of its $3 billion Callaway plant, which went into full service in December 1984.

IP's investment of $3.8 billion (rural electric co-operatives are responsible for another $450 million) for Clinton, which went into full service in November, must be spread among about 500,000 customers, compared to 1 million for UE.

Ten years ago, before any nuclear plant costs were passed on to customers, IP had significantly lower rates than UE.

UE residential customers in Illinois at the time paid $24.07 for 500 kilowatt hours (not including fuel adjustment charges or taxes) compared to $16.52 for the same amount of electricity used by IP customers in the area.

Illinois customers of UE did not have to directly start paying for Callaway until it was finished in the spring of 1985.

But IP customers were charged for "construction work in progress," with a total of more than $1.5 billion in Clinton construction costs gradually added to the rate base between 1979 and 1985.

As a result, the cumulative, overall electric rate increase for IP (almost entirely related to Clinton) has been nearly 60 percent so far. If IP gets its new rate hike proposal, Clinton will have more than doubled IP's electric rates.

In comparison, the overall rate increase for UE electric customers in Illinois because of Callaway is about 31 percent, spread over a four-year phase-in period.

The first year (1985) rates increased 15.9 percent, and the second year (1986) 9.7 percent. But the third step this year and the one slated for next May were reduced to 2.2 percent and 2.1 percent, respectively, because of UE's pass-through of federal tax savings.

Around 65 percent of the current electric rate base charged IP customers is related to Clinton costs, said IP spokesman Barbara Lileyman. Around 28 percent of UE's rate base in Illinois is attributed to Callaway, said Dick McAleenan of UE.

Indoor walking offers fitness, certificates

"Beat the weather and walk on a low-impact indoor track," Jim Chiappa, wellness coordinator, is urging. "Walk with a friend, and earn a certificate from the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness on the way."

The Going Strong Wellness Center, 22nd and Iowa streets, offers the convenience of an indoor track to those individuals interested in walking or running. The 165-foot, oval track is available from mid-January through March 5, during the following sessions:

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, 12:30 to 2 p.m., and 7 to 9 p.m.; Tuesdays and Thursdays, 7 to 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., and 7 to 9 p.m.; and Saturdays, 10 a.m. to noon.

As a new feature, the Wellness Center has now designated times for family walking. Those times are: Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, 2 to 3 p.m. and 6 to 7 p.m.; Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 to 10 a.m. and 6 to 7 p.m.; and Saturdays, 1 to 2 p.m.

Wellness Center personnel are on hand to answer questions. Literature and lap counters are also provided. Cost is $7.

For information or to register, the Center's phone number is 798-3WEL.

Operated by St. Elizabeth Medical Center, the Wellness Center is offering two aerobic classes as part of its second series of winter classes.

An aerobic workout designed for man and women of all ability levels, Begining Low-Impact Aerobics offers warm-up, aerobic phase and cool down. Heart rates are monitored.

The class meets each Monday and Wednesday, 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., and Saturday, 10 to 11 a.m., until March 5. Cost is $30.

High-Intensity, Low-Impact Aerobics is an exercise program for people desiring moderate to high levels of exercise. Depending on the individual, 50 to 75 percent of one's maximum heart rate can be attained.

This class offers an aerobic program including warm-up, aerobic phase, toning and muscle strengthening phase, and cool-down with emphasis on upper body and thigh work rather than hopping and jumping.

"It is especially good for people who desire a total body-aerobic workout, but who have problems with impact injuries," said Chiappa.

Participants meet on Mondays and Wednesdays, 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., and on Saturdays, 9 to 10 a.m., until March 5. Cost is $30.

"Life begins at 50, so why not make the most of it with a fitness program designed just for your special needs?" said Pat McAmish, class instructor for SEMC's Fitness over Fifty exercise program.

"This provides aerobic and flexibility benefits through walking and stretching," said McAmish, "and meets on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays."

Fitness over Fifty will be held until March 4, from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., at the Wellness Center. Cost is $20.

"An energetic and healthy pregnancy is our goal at the Wellness Center's newest class, the Stork Exercise Club," said Cherie Kohler, exercise instructor. "This class is for women in all stages of pregnancy, including postpartum. The exercises are easy to perform and the results will be apparent after several weeks.

"You will be healthy and fit, making your delivery easier and less painful," she said, "and your recovery should be much faster."

Classes stress non-strenuous exercise designed to improve muscle tone, reduce pregnancy-induced lower back pain, increase energy levels, and help regain pre-pregnancy body shape.

A physician's release is required prior to registration. Participants bring a pillow and a blanket to each class. Classes meet on Tuesday and Thursday, through March 3, from 7 to 8 p.m. Cost is $24.

Designed for people of all ages and ability levels, Stretching for Relaxation I and II is a safe, gentle, gradual system of exercise that does not require limberness or stamina. Exercises consist of a series of bends, lifts and twists, performed with specific breathing patterns.

"No one is ever too old, too stiff or too disabled to begin exercising," said Cherie Kohler, instructor. "It may be the lack of exercise in people's lives that is responsible for much of their pain, stiffness, tension, obesity, insomnia, anxiety or depression. The amount of exercise a person gets each day is the single most important factor in maintaining good health.

"There's only one person responsible for your health. It isn't your pharmacist or your doctor. It's the person looking back at you as you gaze into the mirror every morning."

Both classes meet on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, through March 3.

Designed for beginners, Stretching for Relaxation I meets from 5:45 to 6:45 p.m. Stretching for Relaxation II was developed for those people who have completed session I or who have taken other stretching classes and want to continue developing their flexibility skills. This class meets from 4:45 to 5:45 p.m. Cost is $24 per session.

Kohler said, "Our current class participants, both men and women, range in age from 15 to 75.

"Through the use of stretching and breathing exercises, they can increase their energy levels, improve their circulation, correct poor posture, and get a good night's sleep without the use of drugs. After class, they are not tired out, but instead feel refreshed and energized."

"These exercises are for everyone. They can be enjoyed by the active person as well as people who may be overweight or who have never done any sort of regular physical activity."

"Ten of the next 20 years of a typical person's life is spent either asleep or watching television — inactivity more destructive to health than smoking or obesity. Inactivity can cause tension, insomnia, poor appetite or constipation. Muscles are designed to be used and, when not exercised, they degenerate, becoming weak, short and tense.

"Muscles accumulate energy from bodily reaction to fear, anxiety, anger and frustration in everyday situations," said Kohler. "Exercise tends to discharge this accumulation of frustrated energy and directly affects one's emotional stability."

Sanctity of Human Life to be observed by group

Hundreds of Lutheran churches will again observe Sanctity of Human Life Sunday during January in "commemoration of the Jan. 22, 1973, U.S. Supreme Court decision, Roe vs. Wade, which required that abortion-on-demand be legally available throughout all nine months of pregnancy," a Lutherans For Life spokesman said.

"Lutherans For Life, a national, pan-Lutheran, pro-life organization, with hundreds of chapters in North America, annually develops worship and educational materials and coordinates Sanctity of Human Life Sunday programs in Lutheran congregations across the country.

"Sanctity of Human Life Sunday joins the voices of Christians across the nation in acknowledging God as the sovereign of life, in thanking him for the gift of life, and in warning about the growing disregard for the sanctity of life," said the LFL executive director, the Rev. Ed Fehskens.

"The church must also reach out in love to the 11 million mothers who suffer with the guilt and trauma of abortion; to fathers, grandparents and siblings who are, in the truest sense, also victims. For this reason we have chosen as our Sanctity of Human Life Sunday theme ... the passage from Isaiah 61:1, which describes the ministry of Christ and his church: 'He sent me to bind up the brokenhearted.' "

"Abortion, the intentional destruction of one's own unborn child, is no solution to a 'problem pregnancy,' " according to a group spokesman. "This tragic lesson has been painfully learned by many women, who now testify to the physical, emotional and spiritual trauma that abortion inflicts."

'LONDON BRIDGE,' pages from Ernest Nister's 'Pretty Polly: A Novel Book for Children,' first entertained Victorian youngsters.

What's up?

The wacky, wonderful world of pop-up books

By David M. Maxfield
Smithsonian News Service

It's a hidden world in there. Skyscrapers are ready to rise, crocodiles about to snap, planets to orbit and cactus gardens to grow in a second.

"Don't judge a book by its cover" — especially when it comes to "pop-ups."

Mature men — the most avid collectors — have been known to put everything on hold at the mere mention of the wacky-but-wonderful world of pop-up books that spring to life with the pull of a tab or turn of a page.

"They will look at these books a hundred times," the Smithsonian's Katharine Martinez says. And children ... "their faces just light up when they see these books for the first time."

Martinez's domain, the research branch library of the Cooper-Hewitt Museum in New York City, has taken on a lively new dimension with the donation of the museum of an important collection of pop-up and movable books. Many of these books as well as others from private collections will be "performing" at the museum through Feb. 21, 1988, in a new exhibit she organized.

Pop-up books come in a great variety of themes as the exhibit shows — anatomy, architecture, flight, nature and children's literature being just a few popular categories. Victorian-era titles, many of them based on nursery book tales, are eagerly sought by collectors, but contemporary pop-ups also are greatly valued for their hi-tech paper engineering and variety of topics.

"If you're talking about technical, innovative, the 1980s is an extraordinary period," Martinez says.

Books on the market today — they are printed in numerous languages and editions of thousands — run the gamut from fun and games to serious "how to" instruction. In "The Great Movies Live," the story of Hollywood, "readers" can hear the theme song from "Casablanca" via microchip as they follow the stars. "The Bad Child's Pop-Up Book of Beasts" is really more clever than terrifying with its menagerie of yaks, lions, tigers and elephants that jump up from turned pages.

ONE of the most successful pop-up books ever published is 'The Human Body,' 1983, used by doctors to explain operations to patients.

Educational books take on new meaning when they come in pop-up form. "Working Camera" with its 3-D explanations of f-stops and focus can be a breakthrough for novice shutterbugs. And "The Human Body," printed in 17 languages, has been used by doctors to explain surgical procedures to their patients. These books also draw on the talents of artists such as Scott McCarney whose limited editions of circles, triangles and squares superimposed on photographs provide an aesthetic experience when opened.

Action books, as they are sometimes called, come in two basic forms: simple stand-up or three-dimensional pop-up images and movable illustrations. These forms can often be found in the same book. In the movable department, scenes and figures are activated and changed by flaps, wheels, tabs and Venetian blinds. Cats wag their tails, dancing masters tap and pool shooters make winning shots with the pull of a tab. In "The Bad Child's Pop-up"..., three youngsters play with a beatific tiger, but with a flick, the scene changes showing the tiger again, now alone, and nearby, a tiny shoe.

Images in stand-up and 3-D style pop into place as pages are turned. Playing cards flutter over a fleeing "Alice in Wonderland". A gothic Edward Gorey tale, "The Dwindling Party," literally unfolds as the suspense builds. And Victorian children gleefully parade in the parlor game "London Bridge."

Yet the earliest movable action books were not exactly child's play. One of the first uses of the genre was for scientific illustration. "Opera Mathematic," a 1765 book on astronomy by Johannis Schoner in the exhibit, displays pointers and revolving disks, called volvelles, that demonstrated with ease the movement of the universe.

"These earliest books were a solution to a design problem," Martinez explains. "The idea was that a picture is worth a thousand words. It is much easier to absorb a complex concept or information if you have parts that move."

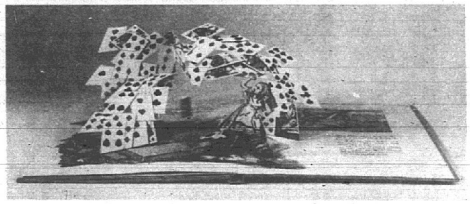

The horizon for pop-ups vastly expanded early in the 19th century, when Humphrey Repton, gardner to English royalty, saw the value of the books as a marketing device. Repton's dryly titled 1803 "Observations on the Theories and Practices of Landscape Gardening," nevertheless tempted potential clients with its clever overlaying flaps. Customers would turn to a page picturing property in an "unimproved" condition, and then by lifting a flap — voila! — the underlying scene showed how the client's land could be cultivated into a setting of beauty.

Victorian era households at some social levels couldn't seem to do enough for children, so adapting the mechanical book to their literature was a must. Pampered tots could look through Ernest Nister's sweet yet innovative books, turn a wheel and see the "Three Bears" or "Little Red Riding Hood," then watch "Jack and Jill" go up the hill.

After World War II, the action shifted to the United States, and in recent years paper engineers have pushed the pop-up to new heights. Collaborating with noted illustrators and authors, they have created books based on amazing technical feats and complex forms. The flora, fish and fauna that inhabit two National Geographic Society books are considered by Martinez the "piece de resistance" of the genre. Page after page is stocked with a baroque abundance of animals, sea creatures and exotic plants. To other enthusiasts, the simpler protruding red jaws of the crocodile in Intervisual Communication's "Dinner Time" are a force to be reckoned with. "The simple books can pack a lot of wallop," Martinez says.

Intervisual, based in Los Angeles, produces most pop-up books today, according to Martinez, who explains how a pop-up is produced. An illustration, such as the peppy crocodile, is shown to a paper engineer, who sees what is translatable into three dimensions. Next comes a mock-up in black and white followed by a fully detailed model that is assembled in a printing plant in either Cali, Colombia or Singapore "because of the high cost of piecework" at home, Martinez explains.

"Everything in these books has to be handcut and constructed." The model is taken around to book fairs, orders taken and the cost effectiveness of producing a new line of books determined.

CARDS: 'Alice's Adventures in Wonderland' was adapted for a pop-up book in 1980 by paper engineer James Roger Diaz.

"I hope that through our exhibit, people will be more aware of paper engineering — how these forms are created," Martinez says. "It's extraordinary."

Pop-ups seem to be, uh, popping up everywhere today. Early in 1987, Time magazine readers found the Transamerica building shooting up from the magazine's pages. Action books, though still largely a childhood diversion, are moving into corporate board rooms as part of marketing strategies. Northern Trust Bank and Honeywell are two companies that have profited from the pop-up in their promotional campaigns.

Not only are the 1980s a time for "some of the most spectacular books," Martinez says, but the time also seems right for starting a collection of these materials. Non-traditional subjects are recommended now by experts for relative availability.

"This is an affordable hobby," Martinez says, "but the books do go out of print, creating a scarcity."

Children's bookstores and museum shops are good places to look, though Martinez cautions that "you really have to comb the stock."

Forming a pop-up collection would certainly be endorsed by the late bibliophile A.W. Pollard: "... if they can be grouped round some central idea, cheap books may yield just as good sport to the collector as expensive ones, and the collector of quite modern works may render admirable service to posterity."

Warriors hosting Class AA regional

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Granite City will host a Class AA boys basketball regional this year — a regional that might be called the Lincoln Invitational.

Memorial Gymnasium will be the site of one of four area regionals from which winners will feed into the East St. Louis Sectional. Class AA regionals are the week of Feb. 29-March 4.

"We had been trying to get one for the past three years when we had really good teams," said GCHS athletic director Greg Patton. "It can be good financially because we get 60 percent of the gate. But it would be even better if we had the real strong teams we had in recent years or if a team like Collinsville was here."

Despite the Warriors' struggles so far this year, they will be the No. 2 seed in the four-team regional, with East St. Louis third and Cahokia seeded fourth. But standing alone at the top of the field will be the defending state champs from East St. Louis Lincoln. The Tigers will be a big favorite to return to state.

Lincoln and Cahokia will play one semifinal, with the Warriors facing East St. Louis in the other. The semifinal games will be played on March 1, with the first game set to tip off at 6:30 p.m. The regional title game will be March 4 at 7:30 p.m. Ticket prices are $1 for grade school students, $2 for high school students and $4 for adults.

The winner of the Granite City Regional will join winners from Highland, Belleville East and Wood River in the East St. Louis Sectional the week of March 7-11.

The Highland Regional consists of Collinsville, Edwardsville, Highland and Roxana. The Belleville East Regional consists of Belleville Althoff, Belleville East, Belleville West, Mascoutah, O'Fallon and Triad. The Wood River Regional consists of Alton, Civic Memorial, Jerseyville and Wood River.

The super-sectional is in Carbondale on March 15.

Class A

Madison and Venice should fight it out again in the Dupo Class A Regional the week of Feb. 22-26. The Trojans and Red Devils have another regular-season battle and will likely be the top two seeds at Dupo.

Also in the field at Dupo will be Columbia, Dupo, East St. Louis Assumption, Lebanon and Lovejoy. The winner there will join regional winners from Gillespie, St. Elmo and Trenton Wesclin at the Vandalia Sectional the week of Feb. 29-March 4.

The Gillespie Regional consists of Gillespie, Hillsboro, Litchfield, Morrisonville, Mt. Olive, Raymond Lincolnwood and Witt. The St. Elmo Regional consists of Brownstown, Farina (La Grove), Kinmundy-Alma, Mulberry Grove, Patoka, St. Elmo and Vandalia. The Trenton Wesclin Regional consists of Bunker Hill, Metro East Lutheran, Greenville, Livingston, Staunton, Wesclin and Worden.

The super-sectional is in Charleston on March 8.

Girls

Granite City is the third seed in the East St. Louis Girls Class AA Regional the week of Feb. 8-12.

East St. Louis Lincoln will be the first seed and East St. Louis will be second with Cahokia fourth.

The Lady Warriors and Flyerettes will play on Feb. 9 immediately following the Lincoln-Cahokia game, which begins at 6:30 p.m. at the East St. Louis (Sr.) High gym.

The regional winner will join regional winners from Edwardsville, Mascoutah and Jerseyville in the Cahokia Sectional the week of Feb. 15-19.

The Edwardsville Regional consists of Collinsville, Roxana, Edwardsville, Triad and Highland. The Mascoutah Regional consists of O'Fallon, Belleville Althoff, Mascoutah, Belleville East and Belleville West. The Jerseyville Regional consists of Jerseyville, Wood River, Civic Memorial and Alton.

The super-sectional is in Collinsville on Feb. 23.

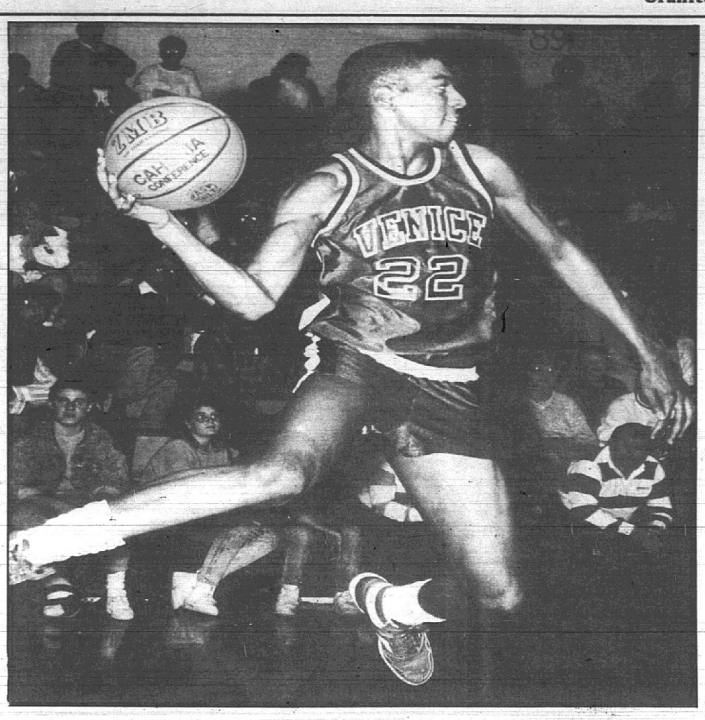

Wrestling

Granite City will be in a tough regional at Belleville East on Feb. 6.

The Warriors will join defending champion Cahokia, Belleville Althoff, Belleville East, Belleville West, East St. Louis Lincoln, East St. Louis, Mascoutah and O'Fallon.

Sessions are at 9 a.m., noon and 6:30 p.m. The top three finishers in each weight class advance to the individual portion of the Granite City Sectional, which will be Feb. 12-13. The team champion will advance to the team sectional at Granite City on Feb. 9.

Winners from Edwardsville, Centralia and Springfield Southeast will also come to Granite City. Semifinal matches in the team sectional will be at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 9 with the title match to follow at approximately 8 p.m.

Lady Warriors get 'ugly' win at Collinsville

By Gary King
Staff writer

COLLINSVILLE — It was sort of like a bad joke, except John Hutchings wasn't laughing.

After a string of good showings, the Lady Warriors took a trip into the Highlight Zone on Tuesday as they exchanged bloopers, bleeps and blunders with the Lady Kahoks before coming away with a 41-25 Southwestern Conference victory.

With the win, Granite City lifts its record to 10-7 overall and 4-3 in SWC play. Collinsville fell to 2-13 overall and 1-5 in conference play.

The script of the Warrior win read like a sitcom — with both squads committing an excess of turnovers and missed shots.

Hutchings was hardly amused.

"That was an ugly win," the Warrior coach said. "We played terribly on defense and we didn't gel as a team."

Hutchings gave three major reasons for his squad's less than picturesque showing — Kim Pawlak, Jennifer Cavaness and April Barker. All three started Tuesday's game despite being handicapped with a touch of the flu.

"All three of those girls were under the weather, especially Kim (Pawlak)," Hutchings said. "You could just tell she wasn't up to par tonight physically."

The flu bug indeed stifled Pawlak and Barker, as the duo combined for only seven points.

But if the flu bug had indeed bitten Cavaness, Hutchings might consider nominating the bug team mascot.

The 6-0 Warrior center dominated the game at both ends of the court as she collected 22 points, 14 rebounds and five blocked shots.

Cavaness was especially effective in the second quarter, when she scored 10 points to turn a 7-5 Warrior lead into a 23-11 halftime advantage. The Kahoks got no closer than six points for the remainder of the contest.

Leading 27-21 heading into the fourth quarter, the Warriors sealed the verdict behind six points from Wendy Knollman and five from Cavaness. Knollman also forced Collinsville's hand defensively as the Granite City point guard forced nine Kahok turnovers and dished out four assists.

Hutchings said he was especially pleased with the play of forward Becky Davis, who scored six points and pulled down six rebounds in a solid effort.

"Becky helped us control the inside game," Hutchings said. "She did a nice job opening some things up for us tonight."

The Warriors return to action next Tuesday when they face Belleville East in a crucial SWC matchup in Belleville.

"The last four games we've done a nice job picking each other up," Hutchings said. "If one of the girls is sick — like tonight — one of the other girls picks up the slack. This is just a 'win we've got to put behind us and forget about.'"

Devils' bad luck in tournaments continues as Oilers win, 72-70

Venice fans can only hope the Red Devils have better luck in the post-season tournament than they have had in regular-season tournaments this year.

First came a surprising loss to Southwestern Piasa in the Columbia Holiday Tournament semifinals, where the Devils had to settle for third place. Another nasty surprise awaited Clinton Harris and his team on Tuesday.

The Wood River Oilers got two free throws from Joe Woodruff with three seconds left for a 72-70 win over the defending state champions in the first round of the 24th Annual Sparta Mid-Winter Classic. The loss leaves the Devils (10-3) preparing for their third meeting of the year with Lebanon, a 71-69 loser to Soldan in another first-round game.

The Venice-Lebanon consolation semifinal will tip off at 8 p.m. tonight, following the Soldan-Wood River championship semifinal game.

"We didn't play any defense all night," Harris said. "Their guard (Woodruff) lost the ball driving the baseline, but when he got it back he was fouled."

Woodruff nailed them both after Daryl Jackson (24 points) had tied the game with a basket with 25 seconds left. After Woodruff's free throws, Dale Turner (24 points) had a final shot that missed.

SCORING

WOOD RIVER	15	19	16	22—72
VENICE	18	22	12	20—70

WOOD RIVER: Shook 18, Zupan 15 (9 assists), Gerber 15 (11 rebounds), Goodman 13, Woodruff 11. FG-31, FT-10, PF-6.

VENICE: Jackson 24, Turner 24, Wiley 8, Treadway 6, Hollis 4, Briggs 2, King 2. FG-34 (2 3-pointers), FT-0, PF-12.

"It was our biggest win of the year," said Oiler coach Greg Moats, whose team went to 9-5. "I told the kids we were going to run even though that's Venice's strength also. We knew we would have to be patient and make Venice sustain its defense."

Turner had 14 of his 24 points in the second quarter, but he and Jackson were the only two Devils in double figures.

"Turner was going one against five for a while there," Moats said. "He's a great player."

The Oilers got balanced scoring. Their five starters played almost the entire game and all of them reached double figures. David Shook had 18 points, Chris Zupan and R.J. Gerber had 15 apiece, Steve Goodman had 13 and Woodruff had 11.

"All of them just about had to play their best game for us to win," Moats said.

Timko in Softball Hall of Fame

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — When Andy Timko stepped behind home plate to umpire his first softball game some 40 years ago, he probably didn't imagine he would still be umpiring in 1988.

He certainly didn't think he would umpire long enough — and well enough — to earn a spot in the National Softball Hall of Fame.

He probably didn't imagine any of that happening, but he doesn't have to. It's happened. The word on the Hall of Fame arrived in the mail recently.

"John McAvoy got me started umpiring around 40 years ago," said Timko, of 2263 Grand Ave., Granite City. "I just got out there and started doing it. I've probably done several thousand games, but I have no idea."

Timko has umpired slow-pitch, fast-pitch and baseball games. He has seen all of the great players in this area, including Junior Poole and Max Legate as well as those who went on to make a name for themselves in other walks of life — like Nellie Hagnauer, Von Dee Cruse and Sam Whitmer.

"I started out at a diamond across from the hospital where the Park N Eat was," Timko said. "I got paid something like $3 a game for softball and $5 for baseball. Now you might get anywhere from $10 to $30 for a game."

"There were always a couple of guys who wanted to make trouble. But most of them were pretty good."

While most Hall of Famers are retired from the thing that has earned them recognition in the Hall of Fame, not so with Timko. He is still umpiring, although it doesn't think his schedule will be as busy this year.

"I could go out there just about every night if I wanted to keep busy," he said. "I'll start up in March with some girls fast-pitch. I never thought about it much before I started umpiring. But I got my son, Richard, into it and he has been umpiring for six or seven years."

Timko, 69, is retired after working for many years at Schermer's Market. His wife, Bernice, and he have three sons. He will go to Peoria in September for induction ceremonies.

"I never thought about anything like this," he said. "I just liked to umpire ballgames."

Gray's rainbow jumper still floating

By Gary King
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Jeff Gray has nowhere to hide.

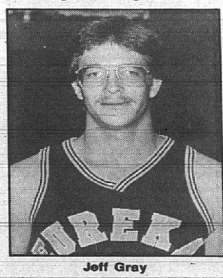

Nearly three years have passed since Gray unleashed his last rainbow jumpshot on the floor of Memorial Gymnasium, but some things just do not seem to change. Gray is one of them.

If the trademark protective eyewear — a la Kareem Abdul-Jabbar — doesn't give away the identity of one of the greatest pure shooters in Warrior history, just wait until he gets a basketball in his hands. If you don't recognize Jeff Gray by his jump shot, then you probably wouldn't recognize Michael Jackson by his moonwalk, either.

Gray, now a junior computer science major at Eureka College in Eureka, Ill., returned to the area Jan. 11 for his team's showdown with SIUE. The Cougars made an ugly scene of Gray's coming home party, handing Eureka a lopsided 95-62 loss.

Gray fell below his team-leading average of 16 points a game in the loss to the Cougars as the 6-3 forward collected nine points and three rebounds due in large part to a stellar defensive effort by SIUE's Frankie Williams.

But judging Gray's contribution to the Red Devils by the box score he amassed against SIUE is like judging a book by the cover, according to Eureka coach Dave Darnall.

Jeff Gray

"Jeff's a great kid and he's got a great attitude," Darnall said. "We're tickled to death to have Jeff playing for us. It's been kind of a rollercoaster ride season for him, though. Some games he's been phenomenal, but in some games he's been double-teamed or he's just not shot real well."

As a team, Eureka has also struggled on the Division III level this season. The Red Devils were 4-7 after the loss to the Cougars after posting a 26-3 mark and claiming the NAIA State Championship last year.

The highlight of Gray's topsy-turvy season came in a December contest against Judson College when he rippled the nets to the tune of 29 points, a figure he reached routinely when he wore the Warrior uniform.

At Granite City High School, Gray averaged 18 points as a junior on a Warrior squad that finished 30-6.

But then there was the 1984-85 season...

In Gray's senior year, he led the Warriors in scoring with 20 points per game in leading the team to an 18-8 mark, a Southwestern Conference championship and its first regional championship in 14 years. For his efforts, Gray was selected to the first-team All-SWC squad as well as earning honorable mention status on the Illinois Class AA All-State team.

Gray moved on to Granite City Campus for his freshman year before transferring to Eureka. His brother, Joe, was also an outstanding basketball and soccer player at GCHS and now plays soccer at Western Illinois University. Another younger brother, Ken, plays for the Warrior basketball team now.

Whereas he was able to make scoring baskets look like a walk through the park at GCHS, Gray said he's found scoring on the

Rainey's new lure catching on well

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Jack Rainey might not have the name recognition of Bill Dance, Orlando Martin or Babe Winkelman yet, but who knows?

Rainey, Rural Route 2 of Granite City, is trying to make his mark in the fishing world with what he believes is somewhat of a revolutionary new bass lure. He has been working on it for a few years and finally developed a finished product about a year ago.

The first year on the market has been a good one, he said.

"I've probably accomplished about 96 or 97 percent of what I was after," Rainey said. "There has been a lot of enthusiasm by most of the people who have seen it. I've had reports of people catching four- and five-pound bass all over. A guy from Louisiana called in June and said his wife had caught an 8½-pounder with it. He couldn't get a picture because it was caught on a private lake and they had to throw it back. I would have like to have seen that."

The lure, called Moss Dawg I, retails for $4 and is on sale at several stores in the area, including Mallory's in Wood River and Merle's in East Alton. The lure has two hooks which spring from out of the back when a fish makes a strike.

"We've added two BB's that helps it roll over and also creates more of a rattling effect for the fish," Rainey said. "And I'm going to change the packaging. It's selling pretty good, but we can do better if we make the packaging more attractive with more information on the outside."

Rainey estimates more than 10,000 of the lures have been sold in the first year. A company over in St. Louis has the mold and his family still does most of the assembly work. He is hoping to contract Specialized Services someday to do the work, which would cost him 35 to 40 cents per lure.

"I've probably spent about $14,000 on it and I think I might have made about half of it back," Rainey said. "There's a computer company in Minnesota that ordered 500 of them for a sales campaign. There's a club up in Chicago that is interested and I've advertised in Midwest Outdoors and Illinois Fishfinder magazines.

The lure will be on display and for sale at the All-Sports Show at St. Louis' Cervantes Convention Center on Feb. 9-14. It weighs 23 grams (less than an ounce) and Rainey is still waiting on a patent from Washington D.C.

"That can take as much as two years," he said.

Rainey said he could make $4 per lure by selling them himself, but admitted it's easier to deal wholesale, selling them to retailers for $2. And he has sent samples out to Johnny Carson and Justin Wilson ("The Cajun Cooker") in hopes of drawing more attention to the lure.

"I feel like the lure has proven itself with the catches it has made," Rainey said. "And we will continue working to improve it. I might not make a million dollars on it, but I could make something. You can get good distance casting, although you can't feel it while you're bringing it back because it's so light."

Meetings scheduled for summer leagues

Granite City Park District summer baseball and softball organizational meetings will be held at the Brown Recreation Center, 2165 Amos Ave.

All new and existing teams should have a representative present.

The dates are as follows: girls youth softball — Jan. 27 at 7 p.m.; youth baseball — Jan. 28 at 7 p.m.; men's softball — Feb. 4 at 7 p.m.; women's softball — Feb. 11 at 7 p.m.

Boosters change date of meeting

Because of freshman orientation at the high school, the Granite City High School Boosters Club has changed its meeting date for January.

The meeting will be held on Jan. 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

collegiate level to, at times, resemble climbing Mount Everest.

"The players on this level are stronger and just basically better than the some of the guys I played against in high school," Gray said, leaning against a wall in SIUE's Vadalabene Center. "It's been a transition for me, but you just gotta learn to change with the times, I guess.

"I don't take half as many shots here as I did when I was in high school, either. We don't build our team concept around having one player who does it all. On this level, you've gotta have five guys playing as a team. That's all there is to it."

According to Darnall, there could be a bright spot on Gray's horizon as a result of forward Tom Dooley's return to the Eureka starting lineup. Dooley, who scored 20 points against the Cougars, is a 6-4 forward who had missed the Red Devils' last six games with an injury.

"With Dooley out, everybody was keying on Jeff," Darnall said. "But they can't do that anymore. They are both dangerous shooters. I think Dooley's return will help Jeff to have a more consistent second half of the season."

He still wears the goggles. The jump shot still has its arch.

And when he steps on the basketball court, Jeff Gray still has nowhere to hide.

Fans unite to get another football team

By Randy Smith
Staff affiliate

St. Louis has dug a hole deeper than the Grand Canyon.

That was the impact of Bill Bidwill's decision to relocate his club in Phoenix, Ariz.

This week, St. Charles businessman Ed Watkins and Bill Weber, head of St. Charles County's Horse Racing Commission, are beginning a campaign to lure an NFL franchise to St. Louis called 4F: "Fans For a Football Franchise."

"We're going to encourage the leadership to get their act together and to work for at least approval of a stadium to be built because that's an essential," Watkins said. "Second, we're going to try to show the NFL what we've done in the past in terms of fan support and what we can do in the future."

Watkins tackled a similar task in 1985 when Bidwill first hinted at the possibility of moving the Cardinals to Phoenix. Three years later, Watkins is having to recover from his most heart-aching defeat.

"I always try to deal with negative things or things that happen in my life that I'm not very happy with," Watkins said. "I try to see how to turn a burden into an opportunity. So Friday was a terrible burden. I felt cut, like I was bleeding. But it didn't take too long for the wound to heal, because I knew it was a distinct possibility that he (Bidwill) would be going."

Watkins found out about the Cardinals' fate around noon Friday. He was attending a reception at the General Motors plant in Wentzville when a friend relayed the news. Then there was a brief flashback to what he and the fans had accomplished during the three-year ordeal.

"I think we've kept things in perspective," he said. "I don't think the fans of St. Louis have dropped the ball at all. In fact, Mr. Bidwill has said all along, and he concluded a press conference the other day by saying, he was very pleased. He felt the fans of St. Louis have been tremendous.

"That's what we wanted to do. My heart and thanks go out to the people of St. Louis. They showed a lot of class."

Watkins isn't as kind to area civic leaders and lawmakers in Jefferson City.

"The relationship between the city and county hasn't been very positive," he said. "I know the governor has been very active in the last month and a half. But so much of his time was spent trying to get agreement from the people here. There was no common ground."

The worst may be yet to come. If Schoemehl proceeds with his plan to fight Bidwill's move in court, some football critics feel NFL owners will look unfavorably on St. Louis as an expansion franchise city. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle is considering expanding the league by two teams in 1990. St. Louis is one of eight cities being considered.

Watkins says St. Louis' media market makes it a frontrunner along with Baltimore, which lost the Colts to Indianapolis three years ago.

"I think we came within a field goal of keeping Mr. Bidwill's team here, but we lost," Watkins said. "It's funny, but there's something about kicking field goals in this town that we're not very good at.

"You look at that and say we lost. But what I really admire about the people of St. Louis is they know how to lose. Instead of giving 10 to 20 reasons why they lost, they realize there's another game to play."

Fans wishing to support "4F" may call the 4F hotline and register their support at 314-947-2107.

Schoemehl suspected move was coming

By Gail Compton
Staff affiliate

St. Louis Mayor Vincent C. Schoemehl Jr. said he has known for more than a year that talks aimed at keeping the football Cardinals in St. Louis have been a "charade."

Cardinal owner Bill would not negotiate with the city in good faith on terms of a lease for a proposed downtown stadium as early as 1986, Schoemehl told reporters at a press conference Friday after Bidwill announced his intentions to move the team to Phoenix, Ariz.

"I knew he was not serious about staying here when I asked him what terms he needed for a new stadium," Schoemehl said. "He would not tell us the terms he wanted, the rent he was willing to pay, how many luxury boxes he wanted and what percentage of concessions he wanted."

Schoemehl said he knew the talks were futile when Bidwill announced he would not allow beer to be sold in the proposed stadium.

"In a city where the stadium he is vacating is owned by Anheuser-Busch and the company would be a major force in building a new facility, you cannot say no beer sales," he said.

Schoemehl said he plans to fight to keep the team in St. Louis by filing papers with the NFL showing all efforts and proposals that the St. Louis area has made to Bidwill.

The mayor feels Bidwill's announcement that he will move is like the opening moves in a chess game. He will counter with trying to demonstrate that St. Louis has made substantial offers to Bidwill and will ask the league to block the move.

City attorney James Wilson will draw the documents and file papers with the NFL by the end of next week, Schoemehl said.

"We intend to demonstrate we have presented him with a significant offer to stay here," Schoemehl said. "We are defending the reputation of St. Louis to the NFL.

"The question is will the other NFL owners allow an owner to leave one city just because he can make more money in another city? If the answer is yes, then any city can start a bidding war on any team."

At stake for the NFL is fan support and loyalty to a team, Schoemehl said.

"There is a symbiotic relationship between fans and the franchise," he said. "If a franchise is on wheels and rolled around to other cities, all will suffer."

But Schoemehl realizes it is an uphill battle to prevent the team from moving, especially when coupled with the possibility that some owners may like the idea of shopping their teams to the city with the best proposal.

"When the NFL (owners are) informed about how good the city's bid was, maybe they will be so impressed that they will vote to let Bidwill go so one of them can come in here and take it (our offer)," he said.

Schoemehl said he also will try to get a new domed stadium built downtown and is urging the state legislature to create a stadium district to finance it, in part to help get an expansion franchise for the city.
